

Visions Of Atlantis, The Deep & the Dark

Shut the light, call the night, bring my safety back
Are they gone, I hear none as all fades to black
But your hand on my shoulder's calming me down

Build a wall, start a war, here they come for me
Grab the sword, come on board, face my enemy
But you silence all their cries when you speak your loving words

Be my sun rise
Redemption lies in your eyesl.

You are my antidote
When the waves of doubts rush in
As I drown in my memories
The darkness creeps in

Losing faith on my battleground
The shadows leave their mark
Your light brings me back from
The deep and the dark

Take my hand. make a stand and then hold your breath
See what comes, see what may, when my souls at stake
And you loosen all the knots with a smile on your face

In this rat race
The enemy wears my face

You are my antidote
When the waves of doubts rush in
As I drown in my memories
The darkness creeps in

Losing faith on my battleground
The shadows leave their mark
Your light brings me back from
The deep and the dark

Come take my hand, take my heart
Keep' me safe. keep me warm
They take my pride. take this life
But they won't take my soul

You are my antidote
When the waves of doubts rush in
As I drown in my memories
The darkness creeps in

Losing faith on my battleground
The shadows leave their mark
Your light brings me back from
The deep and the dark