

Volturian, Broken

As I'm drowning in the night, as I leave it all behind
I can read it in your eyes, it's all this time together
I came back to the mist, back to reality
It hurt so much to think, I tried so hard, in vain
To keep you on my side, to justify your lies (to justify your lies)
And some things never change (never change) at all (at all)
As I learned

I know you meant these words to be unspoken
But I won't cross the line, I'll get you when you're sleeping
This time I'll be better, I won't let you out, I'll be there
Even when you leave me broken

As bright as my desire, as the fire in your eyes
The memories shine bright, despite the stormy weather
Now that you walk alone, I don't know you anymore
It hurt so much to think, that maybe it's too late
To try to put aside the truth behind your lies (the truth behind your lies)
But I fight back again (again) and change (and change)
At all

I know you meant these words to be unspoken
But I won't cross the line, I'll get you when you're sleeping
This time I'll be better, I won't let you out, I'll be there
Every time you leave me broken

I know you meant these words to be unspoken
But I won't cross the line, I'll get you when you're sleeping
This time I'll be better, I won't let you out, I'll be there
Every time you leave me broken