

Walk in Darkness, Nothing

'We have lost everything we could have lost and we leave again in low light, in the oblivion of the falling leaves thinking we have always been here as if we never born as if we never die'

We can see ships leaving for the stars along the lines of space-time, defying the laws of gravity

Only memories are left in the cone of light among floating plastic islands in post-reality

We can see
dense dark clouds that fill the world stage, and the blanks of the soul
So, we're here now Run to me like a rushing river
nothing, nothing lasts forever
Like a wave crashing down over me
Nothing, nothing lasts forever
Forever
Nothing, nothing lasts forever
I call the rain as witness on the stand I call the wind and time
and all things that run away

Which algorithm can redraw
the silver glows of the streams, or the miracle of dreams?

Nothing around us, only ships that leave for the stars
along the lines of space-time

We can see
I call the wind and time
We can see
We can see
I call the things that flees
We can see
Run to me like a rushing river,

Like a wave crashing down over me,
Run to me like a rushing river,
Like a wave crashing down over me,
Forever
