

Wide Mouth Mason, Where I Started

In the midst of this cruel healing
I find myself out in the cold
An eastward murder caught me staggering
You're here but I'm alone

In the phosphor blue of this night time
All our lies freeze hazy
Your smiles are knives they tear me
As your shadow turns you ugly

But it's alright 'cause you didn't mean to
But it's alright 'cause you don't know what you did
Yeah, it's alright now
You brought me right back down to where I started

With an offering her words hang heavy
And it won't be long before they come down
I was mystified they rang so easy surprised myself and followed her out

And they will come sweeping over
Picking up what's left of you

And I will keep my hand steady
And I will keep myself ready
