

William Beckett, You and I Against the World

They said our love is a little strange,
I wouldn't want it any other way,
You and I against the world
We don't really get much sleep,
But we haven't given up the dream,
Strangers in our own town
We found a way out
Say goodbye to all those places
Familiar names, familiar faces
You and I, we never had a chance in hell

You and I against the world
You and I against the world

Clothes hanging on the door
Rolling around on the floor
Nothing can tear us apart
I dare anyone of them to try
Doing everything for two
Making all come true
We never had a chance in hell,
Just look at us now
The sun is up, the clouds are breaking
There you are asleep, but naked
I'd kiss you now, but I don't want to break the spell

You and I against the world
You and I against the world
You and I against the world

Say goodbye to all those places
Familiar names, familiar faces
I'd kiss you now, but I don't want to break the spell
I can't do this by myself

You and I against the world
You and I against the world
You and I against the world
You and I against the world
(making it all come true)
You and I against the world
(making it all come true)
You and I against the world
