Yoko Ono, Death Of Samantha

Two, one, two, three, four.

People say i'm cool, Ya', i'm a cool, chick baby. Ev'ry day i thank god That i'm such a cool, chick baby.

When i'm on the phone, i thank god, My voice sounds smooth and clear without a trace of tear. When i'm at work, i thank god, I still have that smile ma used to say lit her day.

But something inside me, something inside me died that day.

People say i'm cool, Ya', i'm a cool, chick baby. Ev'ry day i thank god That i'm such a cool, chick baby.

When i'm with people, i thank god, I can talk hip when i'm crying inside. When i'm with friends, i thank god, I can lit a cigarette when i'm choking inside.

People say i'm cool, Ya', i'm a cool, chick baby. Ev'ry day i thank god That i'm such a cool, chick baby.

A friend lent me shades So i could hide my eyes that day. Was a snowy day, The shades have seen a lot of things i didn't want to know myself.

Was like an accident, part of growing up, People tell me.

But something inside me, something inside me died that day.

What do you do-oo? what can you do? What do you do-oo? what can you do?