

Zayn Malik, Common

Always lookin' out behind my fences Always felt isolated I don't know why I was so defensive I'll find a way to let you in

I'll die if I don't try damned if I ask why
this is something real
this is something right
never been in love
never felt it all until now

as I lay here in your bad I need you on my chest
to warm me all the time to take away your breath sweetening on you lips
there ain't nothing common about us in this ordinary world where nothing enough everything is gray
mistaking love for lust
when I hold you in my arms

I see all your flaws and imperfections but that's what makes me love you more we got such a spiritual connection don't you know you're fucking beautiful
