

Bad Religion, The State Of The End Of The Millennium

Neighbors, nobody loves you like we do. neighbors, your government has triumphed in finally making the economic well-being of its subjects. today we have insulated you from countless factions who tell you childish notions of social welfare; why, you're even kept uninformed of useless propagandist journalism (if they hadn't been doing something wrong!!). and who better to dispense such blatantly evident facts than we?

Acid rain is a thing of the past.... too many possible causes, too little significance for our modern times. Arrow minded laborers, too many mouths to feed, hehe, and too much burden on the payroll! who needs it? Exploiting its uneducated children anyway.

The internet has expanded our ability to pacify average americans better than ever by offering fantasies. And the heart of your social life. such reclusive behavior helps clear the roads and public works from traffic. Oday you are freer than ever to do what you want, provided you can pay for it!

Remember, the first word in usa is us!
We have arrived, neighbors, we are the privileged elite
